

30th Annual ICT/AFACT Property & Casualty Symposium FAQ

Q: Will there be a virtual option?

A: At this time we are continuing with an in-person event. We are continuing to monitor the Austin Public Health guidelines. ICT/AFACT's goal is to provide a safe environment for all participants, speakers and staff. We will notify all participants if there is any change to a virtual event as soon as possible.

Q: How will I sign in the day of the event?

A: ICT is working on an electronic sign-in/sign-out for our attendees.

Q: Will the hotel provide keyless entry into rooms?

A: Yes. Please see some other safety measures the Hyatt Regency Austin is taking to keep guests safe.

Q: What safeguards is the Hyatt taking to ensure participants safety? (Including food services, conference seating, before and between sessions, and hotel room cleaning.)

A: Please review what the Hyatt Regency Austin is doing to keep guests safe. Current mask policy is:

- Face coverings are requested for all guests, including fully vaccinated guests, in indoor areas
- Face coverings are required for non-vaccinated guests in all areas.
- Proper physical distancing is encouraged in hotel indoor and outdoor public areas
- Hotel staff are required to wear face coverings

Q: Will all participants be in one room? Is ICT limiting the number of attendees?

A: ICT and the Hyatt Regency Austin are making your safety a top priority. We are not limiting the number of attendees; however, are keeping with current hotel policies.

Q: Will the silent auction, which benefits the ICT Education Foundation, be available online?

A: Yes. ICT will continue to host the Silent Auction online again this year. The auction was introduced last year using 32Auctions. Auction items will be available for viewing the day of the event and participants will be able to bid using their mobile devices. More details to come as the Symposium and Silent Auction near.

Q: Will CE/CLE credits be applied for participants?

A: Yes, ICT will be applying for CE/CLE credits for all in-person attendees. Please remember to include your CE/CLE license number when signing in the day of the event, so your credits may be properly applied.

Q: Will the program be recorded and available after the event?

A: Yes, the Symposium will be recorded and available to all registered participants approximately one week after the event. CE/CLE credits will only be offered for in-person attendees. Credits will not be available for recorded sessions.
